Servicing Needs of a Captive

Role of Directors in Management of the Corporation

The ultimate responsibility for the business and affairs of the corporation belongs to the board of directors. The board discharges this responsibility by:

- Appointing officers who run the day-to-day operations of the corporation, propose strategies and objectives, and implement corporate plans;
- Supervising those officers;
- Making major decisions for the corporation (for example, closing or selling the company).

The Officers of the Corporation

President. General authority over the ordinary course of business of the Corporation. To preside at all meetings of the Shareholders and Board of Directors.

Vice-President. Any Vice-President, or Vice-Presidents, shall have such powers and duties as shall be assigned to them by the Board of Directors or the President.

Treasurer and Assistant Treasurers. Subject to the direction of the Directors, have: general charge of the financial concerns of the Corporation; care and custody of the funds and valuable papers of the Corporation any Assistant Treasurer shall have such powers and duties as the Directors or the President may delegate to such office.

Secretary and Assistant Secretaries. Shall keep an attested copy of the Articles of Incorporation and amendments thereto, and of these Bylaws. The Secretary shall also keep a record of the meetings of the Directors. The Secretary shall give or cause to be given such notice as may be required of all meetings of Shareholders and all meetings of the Board of Directors and shall keep the seal of the Corporation in safe custody and affix it to any instrument when such action is incident to his or her office or is authorized by the Board of Directors. Any Assistant Secretary shall have such powers and duties as the Directors or the President may delegate to such office.

The positions above are commonly held by representatives of various departments including Risk Management, Treasury, and the General Counsel's office. Oversight of the captive is a shared responsibility between the outsourced captive manager how handles the majority of not all of the interim financial reporting and captive regulatory filings and representatives noted above. A relatively straight forward captive as proposed would require only a small portion of each person's time which we estimate may aggregate to a ½ full time employee.
